Subject: treat Microsoft like they did something fundamentally wrong (and continue to do it..
XP and .NET, used PCs as billboards and ...

microsoft markey cap is largely based on underhand, manipulative, business practices....Microsoft should suffer a MONETARY fine that represents a large portion of it's profits during the past 10 or so years...the profits were not made fairly. If they get off with anything less than this, the world will laugh even louder at our so-called 'democracy' and justice for all sloganeering...it's pitiful to the point of being pathetic. Monetary power doesn't equal moral authority.
